Merlin Park Woods Open Workshop 14th October 2011

A community workshop regarding the dormant potential of Merlin Park Woods is to be carried out by Icecream Architecture as part of the travelling 'Architectural Circus' in October. The workshop will be an open event that seeks community and public engagement to adopt the local views and present them in a coherent and ambitious proposal for the community and local council.

The morning workshop shall be conducted on-site and document the current uses and connections of the park to develop an understanding of the benefits the site offers in its current state.

The afternoon workshop will coincide with OpenHouse Galway and seek opinion of how the park's potential can be yielded for the wider city of Galway. This workshop will be carried out at an on-street event by the Spanish Arch between 3-5pm.

The evening workshop will ask the community about the future of their park. It will be a hands-on, engaging exercise that opens a dialogue for all interested local parties to get their requirements heard for the park.

Icecream architecture, in collaboration with The Irish Arts Council, a talented and enthusiastic group of architecture graduates, visual artists and architects are composing a whistle stop tour around Ireland engaging with local communities and schools to deliver a calendar of interactive workshops that promote architecture and design through engagement, interaction and above all, enjoyment.
